

CALAIS

One of the most exciting MOKO panel designs was inspired by Calais, the town on the narrowest point of the English Channel – just opposite of Dover.

The curving hollows seem to diverge at first sight, suggesting differentness and separation, but after a few imaginary twists we get a perfect circle and arrive at unity.

This unity and spirit of cohesion characterized the 14th century Burghers of Calais as well, whose heroic self-sacrifice was immortalized in the famous Rodin statue.
